Discussion Questions for Isaiah 24-27

- How does Isaiah describe the condition of the earth in the last days (see 24:1–6)?
- What causes this condition (see 24:5–6)?
- Does the state of the earth and its people in 24:5–6 resemble the modern world in any ways? If so, give some examples.
- The consequences of persistent rebellion against God's lordship are graphically described in 24:1–4, 6–13, 16–20. What else will happen on the day of destruction (see 24:21–23)?
- Why is 24:14–16 a reasonable response to 24:6–13?
- What does Isaiah Isaiah 25 tell us about the origins of death and what do you learn that God will do about death?
- Put the promise of Isaiah 26:3 into your own words and explain why this promise is still available to believers today?
- What does Isaiah 26:20-21 tell you about how God will protect the faithful people of Israel during the Great Tribulation?
- How does the Lord treat Israel, His vineyard (see 27:3)?
- If His vines were just briers and thorns, the Lord wouldn't mind simply burning them up and starting again (see 27:4). But He hates to do that to good grape vines even though they are barren. What does He wish His vines—His people—would do (see 27:5)?
- Why won't the Lord burn up His vines (see 27:6)?
- What message does 27:2–6 offer Christians?
- What price must Israel (Jacob) pay in order to atone for the people's sin (see 27:9)?
